FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

An outstanding slate of speakers has been secured for the eighth Institute on Taxation and Estate Planning, which will be sponsored by the Montana State University Law School in Missoula Dec. 9 and 10, according to Prof. Lester R. Rusoff, institute director.

The speakers and their topics include Henry S. Hayum, C.P.A., Seattle, Wash., "Problems of Operating and Liquidating a Subchapter S Corporation"; George T. Bennett, tax counsel, Montana State Board of Equalization, Helena, "Montana Income Taxation"; David E. Ellison, trust officer, Seattle, "Life Insurance Trusts"; Frank M. Cavanaugh, attorney, Denver, Colo., topic in field of oil or gas; Henry P. Green, associate director, Division of Special Services, Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, New York City, topic relating to insurance.

E. James Stephens, C.L.U., Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., Springfield, Mass., "Some Tax Planning Opportunities for the Small Businessman"; Alva C. Baird, attorney, Los Angeles, Calif., "The Attorney-Client Privilege in Tax Matters"; Myles J. Thomas, attorney, Billings, "Tax Aspects of Condemnations"; Robert R. Mountain, C.P.A., Miles City, "Income in Respect of Decedents."

Extracurricular activities available for institute registrants include a party given by the Union Bank and Trust Co. of Helena the evening of Dec. 8 at the Florence Hotel and basketball games between MSU and Montana State College Dec. 9 and 10. A block of tickets for the Grizzly-Bobcat games is reserved for registrants, Prof. Rusoff said. Those who wish to buy tickets should write to Robert L. Dundas at the MSU Field House and identify themselves as registrants of the institute.

The institute registration fee of $20 may be paid by check payable to Montana State University and sent to Lester R. Rusoff, MSU Law School, Missoula.
